Legislature Convenes For Special Session

SACRAMENTO — The California legislature met in Sacramento Monday to begin its special session devoted to drawing new boundary lines for the state's 38 congressional districts, with members of both parties introducing "non-partisan" bills.

Senator Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno) quickly was reinstated as president pro tempore of the senate, while Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh (D-Inglewood) was elected to another session in that capacity. There was no surprise in either action, although there had been some wishful thinking by Republicans they might cause a change in the senate, now that the upper house is equally divided—20 Republicans and 20 Democrats.

In both houses, two versions of reapportionment bills were introduced. Many members have been saying they hoped the job of drawing the new lines could be completed in two or, at the most, three weeks. But they admitted this could be delayed if any partisan bickering started.

IN THE ASSEMBLY, at least, his seemed to be near the surface on the first day. Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton (D-Montebello) chairman of the elections and reapportionment committee in the lower house, said he had enough votes to have his bill approved by committee and enough votes to have it passed by the assembly.

Fenton announced an ambitious schedule of having the bill out of committee by today and approved by the assembly tomorrow or Friday. There is one small problem here: the bill only takes a majority vote, or 41. But to have the bill heard before three days have expired, and to speed up its debate on the floor would require a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules.

Republicans indicated they would object to hearing the Fenton bill until more material was printed and available to them.

IN THE SENATE, Senator James R. Mills (D-San Diego) introduced his bill. Mills leads the elections and reapportionment committee in the upper house.

But Senator John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) introduced a bill in the senate and Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad (R-Sherman Oaks) had a measure in the assembly.

Generally, the Democratic bills would draw new districts so none deviated from the average by more than 5 per cent. The Republican bills would permit deviations from the average population by up to 15 per cent.

ALL MEMBERS in both parties are agreed the bill to change the districts will have to be non-partisan. But there is expected to be a lot of debate on what is non-partisan.

When district lines are changed and people moved from one district into another, someone has to be helped and someone has to be hurt. Members of both parties will attempt to make shifts in the lines to cut the party registration for weak congressmen in the opposite party.

Fenton's bill, for instance, would divide Marin County, with Novato and the northern area remaining in the 1st district, which runs to the Oregon border and is represented by Rep. Don Clausen (R-Crescent City). San Rafael and the metropolitan area in the southern county would go to Rep. William S. Maillard (R-San Francisco).

BUT MCCARTHY'S bill would keep Marin County in tact and include the whole county with part of Alameda County.

In addition, McCarthy said the committee would keep Marin County in they have half the members in the senate, would have equal representation on the committee. The committee now has seven members—four Democrats and three Republicans. McCarthy wants to increase the membership to 10 with five members of each party.
